To Our Friends and Members,

As many of you have no doubt noticed, there is a very large "Available" sign on the front lawn of the property on 19th and Cinnamon. To say that we have expected and been preparing for this for years is an understatement! Yet it is still a hard thing to see each time you approach the property.

Happily, however, the church is not for sale: the property is. The church is us! We are God's people gathering together in worship, prayer, service, mission, and growth as disciples. These things will go on wherever God leads us.

It is to that end I write you today. We are making major decisions about what Christ Church Anglican Mission (there are even a few suggesting a name change) will look and feel like for the foreseeable future. We want to take the best of our traditions and our core mission with us, but use this time to shed and reform areas of stuffiness, stiffness, and the dreaded, "we've just always done it this way." A move provides a wonderful opportunity to take a good look at ourselves, where we want to be, and how we want to get there.

But our conversations, and our conclusions, will be incomplete without you. So I am writing today to ask for your particular participation in weekly worship and special meetings over the next few months. This is your church, and we want to make sure you have every possible chance to ensure it will be intentionally shaped to meet your needs, and the needs of the part of our larger community you represent.

Your Servant,
